

WHEN TO SEEK HELP

Stress or anxiety are affecting your day-to-day functioning, mood, energy, appetite and/or sleep

DEPRESSION

- Persistent “down” feelings
- Decreased interest in pleasurable activities
- Feelings of hopelessness
- Low self-worth
- Headaches, body aches/pains

ANXIETY

- Persistent worrying about things you can't control
- Difficulty relaxing
- Heart pounding
- Difficulty breathing
- Gastrointestinal problems

WHEN YOU'RE WORRIED ABOUT A LOVED ONE

WHAT TO LOOK FOR

- Major changes in behavior/mood
- Difficulty managing responsibilities
- Taking uncharacteristic risks (e.g., excessive alcohol or drug use)
- Expressing thoughts of wanting to die, feeling hopeless or trapped, finding it difficult to identify reasons for living, or feeling unbearable pain or a sense that they are a burden on others

WHAT TO SAY/DO

- Ask, "Are you thinking about suicide?" and take them seriously
- Be there – show your support
- Keep them safe
- Help them connect with ongoing support and treatment
- Follow up – check in to see how they're doing

SUPPORTING YOUR CHILD OR TEEN

- Encourage open and honest conversations, and really listen
- Ask them how they're feeling/if anything is bothering them, and acknowledge their struggles
- Develop routines that include a range of activities (e.g., learning, leisure, play, family time)
- Model healthy coping strategies
- Help them safely connect with friends and family members
- If you're concerned about your child's mental health, talk to their pediatrician
